

THE MATTER IGNORED.

We were last evening shown a private dispatch from Reno, announcing that the Grand Jury of Washoe county had unanimously ignored the finding of any indictments in the recent shooting affray in the office of the Nevada and Oregon Railroad Company. Our readers are aware of the circumstances of the affray which resulted in the death of S. C. Scoville and the almost fatal wounding of D. W. Balch. The result of the preliminary examination, which lasted about two weeks, and in which some of the ablest lawyers of the State participated, was the holding of McMechan over to await the action of the Grand Jury. It seems that the evidence was not direct enough to induce the Jury to bring any one to trial. However unsatisfactory the result of the Grand Jury may be, it is probably just as well, the testimony considered, than incurring the expense attendant upon a prolonged trial without evidence to convict. The killing of Scoville, a gentleman of good character, was sad. The public have had the testimony elicited and can judge for themselves. In the dying statement of deceased he averred that it was Tremnor Coffin who fired the fatal shot. There was in consequence, and very naturally, too, a good deal of feeling manifested toward that gentleman. But the testimony at the investigation showed conclusively to the relatives and friends of Scoville that Coffin did not commit the act. We make this statement in justice to Mr. Coffin.

It is a sad and curious spectacle, says the Sacramento Bee, to see, as the world now sees, the Government of England using her army and her navy to turn her own subjects, men, women and children, out of their homes into the roadside to starve of cold and hunger, while the people of the United States and of other countries are sending money to the women to build houses for and feed the disinherited. A Government ought to be the protector of its people, but in this case it is nothing but their oppressor. Miss Parnell says that 50,000 houses will be needed this winter to shelter the poor people that England has by force of arms thrown out of their houses to perish by the roadside. And yet England is looked upon as a Christian land.

Chicago, where smallpox has been a scourge this year, is furnishing statistics to the partisans of vaccination. Forty per cent. of the 359 cases since January 1st have proved fatal, and a large proportion of the fatal cases have occurred among the degraded foreign population who resist vaccination with violence. Eighty-one of the 108 deaths from smallpox in September were in a ward where there are 40,000 persons who have not been vaccinated. The opponents of vaccination would, of course, urge the lack of cleanliness, etc., as the true reason for the spread of the disease.

The London Times makes this remarkable statement concerning the City of Rome, the new Inman steamer: "By the turning of a single lever her engines can be brought to a dead stop in two seconds. In five seconds they can be brought from full speed ahead to full speed astern." With a vessel so completely under control collisions ought to be reduced to the smallest minimum.

The United States ship Alliance has arrived from a fruitless search for the Jeannette. Commander Wadleigh says no ship should attempt to force a passage to the east coast of Greenland without being fitted to pass at least one winter in the ice. The ice last year was heavier and farther to the south than usual.

It is evident, from the telegraphic news, that "an effort will be made next winter to get Congress to reduce the tax on whisky from ninety to fifty cents a gallon;" that another desperate attempt is being made to revive the Democratic party.

During the present season 47,414,074 pounds of salmon have been canned on the Pacific Coast. The future of the business in that region depends largely upon the results of the season's foreign shipments, regarding which much interest and some natural anxiety are felt.

Hendricks on His Contemporary Senators.

MADISON, Ind., November 1.—The Evening Courier contains a retrospect by ex-Governor Thomas A. Hendricks of his Senatorial career. Hendricks regards Beverly Johnson as the ablest lawyer in the Senate during his term. Charles Sumner succeeded in having more of his views embodied in the laws of the country than any other man. McDougall, of California, excelled all in gem-like speeches, made on the spur of the moment. Henry S. Lane, of Indiana, had few superiors as an orator. Governor Grimes, of Iowa, was as pure a man as ever entered public life. Colamer, of Vermont, was remarkable for his ingenuity in debate. Anthony never gave offense, and was highly successful. Buckalew was a debater of rare force, and produced during the stress of his Senatorial duties the ablest book on minority representation. Garrett Davis was the most fearless debater he ever saw, but was not always consistent. Doolittle, of Wisconsin, was the finest orator. Fessenden, of Maine, was the ablest Senator his State has produced. He never left a point unanswered and was the readiest man in the body. John P. Hale was brilliant, but not studious, and repeated himself. John Sherman was prepared for action. Governor Morton was an able leader, but extreme in his expressions. Strength and earnestness were his peculiarities.

Those Russian Nihilists.

ST. PETERSBURG, November 2.—The police have just made an important capture. Suspicion having been directed to the inmates of a house in the respectable part of the city, the police surrounded the place at night, burst open the doors and seized a man and woman who were preparing dangerous explosives. Socialist pamphlets were found in the rooms. The man is a student in the school of mines. Last week a number of Nihilist proclamations were distributed about the city and several copies thrown into the barracks of the Imperial guard. It is stated that the Czar has lately received many threatening letters.

No Confederate Money in the Bank of England.

LONDON, Nov. 2.—The Pall Mall Gazette says: There is no truth whatever in the statement that there is a large amount of money in the Bank of England deposited to the credit of the Confederate government and available for the payment of Confederate bonds. We believe it does not hold a single penny and doubt whether there is any such money in any bank in this country. The whole story is a gross falsification intended to produce a speculation that has no substantial foundation.

The Boston World's Fair.

BOSTON, Nov. 2.—The Executive Committee on the World's Fair met yesterday and agreed to forward circulars addressed to three leading representatives in each class of business and trade and in each profession. Encouraging assurances were given by members of the committee, who believe the project will be heartily endorsed by the public. The subscription books will be ready shortly.

More Troops for Ireland.

LONDON, November 2.—A troop ship left Portsmouth yesterday with 520 men to reinforce the various regiments in Ireland. Orders have been received at Athlone to have a flying column in readiness to proceed immediately to any part of Westmeath or Roscommon. Snow fell in London and various parts of England yesterday.

What Confederate Bonds are Wanted For.

WASHINGTON Nov. 1.—There have been several applications at the Treasury Department recently by persons to make contracts to collect for the Government the balance remaining in the Bank of England to the credit of the defunct Confederate States. Agar, of Washington, made a contract of this kind with Secretary Sherman. This contract expired last September, and Agar failed to get the money. It is said that this money was deposited in some peculiar manner and controlled by five Trustees, who now collect the interest annually, and that Jeff Davis and Judah P. Benjamin are two of these Trustees. It is with the hope of getting this money that English capitalists are buying Confederate bonds. Benjamin has been retained by these capitalists as their lawyer, and he thinks he can recover the money in payment of Confederate bonds. Solicitor Raynor, of the Treasury, intends to call the attention of the British Government to the money with the view of recovering it for the United States.

It is said that there is a boy in St. Paul, Minnesota, whose left hand has the properties of a magnet. The peculiar feature of the case is that the magnet does not discriminate between such articles as pocket-knives and such less attractive things as coal-scuttles and stove-griddles.
